The residents in Marcy avenue are much opposed to tracks being inid in front of their houses.

The contract between the city and the Rallroad Company demanded that the Company secure consents from the property owners holding over one-half of the valuation of the property along the route of the line.

This was to be done within a given time.

This was to be done within a given time.

City Works Commissioner White cialmed that the contract had not been kept. He proceeded to remove Fiynn's tracks and poles from the avenue as osstructions. An injunction stopped him.

This morning Mr. Furst said that the Company had included Tompkins Park and the Boys High School in their list of valuations.

The park was put down for $300.000 and the Boys High School for $190,000. To get the valuation on the park the whole 700 feet depth was taken, while the law only allows 100 feet.

Mr. Furst claimed that even though the Board of Aldermen had allowed the Company to include the High School property, it could not stand, as the projectly was vested in the Board of Education.

AN EASY ROAD TO WEALTH.

This Game Is Not Dishonest if Backed by a Peddler's License.

In the Adams Street Court, Brooklyn, to-day, Abraham Weisberg, of 47 De lancey street, New York, who was necused of vagrancy, told an interesting story of how a smart New Yorker had discovered a short road to wealth by speculating in goods sold at pawn-brokers' auction sales. The goods were afterwards re-pawned for more than they cost and the sale of the tickets brought an additional income.

Welsberg was arrested last night by Sergt. Miles O'Reilly, who saw him speak to several persons and offer something for sale. He learned that Welsberg had a pawnticket for a diamond ring, upon which $25 had been loaned, which he wanted to sell for $1.05. When searched at the station-house seven other pawntickets were found in his possession.

"Yes, I suppose that is the only charge." replied Sergt, O'Reilly.

"Well, Weisberg," said the Court, "you go to the City Clerk's office and procure a peddler's license, and I'll discharge you."

Weisberg started for the City Hall in the custody of an officer.

SUES FOR HER GRANDCHILD.

Dr. Bruce s Mother-in-Law Says He Cannot Provide for His Son. Application was made before Surrote Abbott, of Kings County, in Brooklyn this morning by Mrs. Cecelia Augus ta Dowd for the appointment of a guar-lian for her grandchild, F. John Bruce. ## SHEPARD MEN DON'T LIKE IT.

They Think Regulars Should Make Sacrifices for Harmony.

There was considerable dissatisfac tion expressed among the rank and file of the Shepard Democracy at the Montague street headquarters, in Brooklyn this morning over the action of the Executive Committee in bowling down Daniel Walsh, the Congressional nomi nee of the party, and indorsing Arthur S. Somers, the regular candidate, in the Sixth District. It is the first practical step towards harmony, and, Mr. Shep ard says, was made in order that his party might show its good faith.

The most important Democratic meet ing in Brooklyn to-night will be held at Tivoll Hall, Fifth avenue and Second street, where Vice-President Adial E. Stevenson and John E. Fitzgerald will Stevenson and John E. Fitzgerald will speak.

At the headquarters of the regulars this morning the leaders who represent the machine state: that none of the regular hominees would pull out. Mr. Bell, however, who is working for harmony, stated that he hoped some agreement would be reached before night.

Mr. Shepard's followers, who are not on the inside of the circle think the party has made a mistake, as the regulars ought to have made some advances towards harmony. To-morrow is the last day for the filing of declinations, and the regulars said to-day that it would not surprise them if several more of Mr. Shepard's nominees refused to the police until a neighbor learned of the affair a couple of hours later.
